

Case study: Leeds Virtual Science Park

HE-Industry partnerships

Situation

The virtual science park

The University of Leeds on-line support for research networks, professional and graduate learning, and out-reach activity.

Key actions

Created a high quality collaborative working environment - virtual buildings, reception areas, personal offices, common rooms, and project rooms

Offering - Partnerships between academia, public sector organisations and businesses Access to research information

Document management system

Powerful search tools

Alerting services

Links to experts

Impact...

High quality learning environment

Learners have on-line access at any time to learning resources.

Researchers in academia and industry can collaborate more easily